Thieves getting credit for stealing identities

By KIMBERLY MALLOZZI
NAVSTA Public Affairs Staff

There are thieves out there looking to steal your good name.

That was the message of speakers at the Fleet and Family Support Center's (FFSC) Identity Theft seminar on Thursday, Sept. 4.

Though it was a small turnout, the attendees learned how to reduce the risk of identity theft and what to do if their identity is stolen.

Fran Christian and Dennis Dorando of the Navy Federal Credit Union said there are 400 ways to invade privacy, and they explained the various methods and gave facts about identity theft.

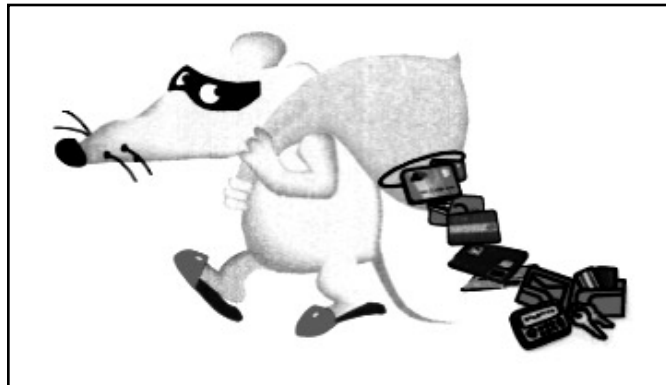

Through the loss or theft of a purse or wallet, to pick-pocketing, to hacking into computers and "dumpster diving," more than 27 million American have been victimized over the past five years, the Federal Trade Commission reported recently.

Identity theft occurs when someone uses your name or personal information without your permission.

This information can be retrieved in many ways, such as with a social security number, a driver's license number, over the Internet, a credit card number, or telephone number.

Identity thieves will then take that information and open credit accounts and bank accounts, and make large purchases. Nearly anything is possible, the Navy Federal Credit Union representatives said.

The facts on stolen identity

- 27.3 million Americans have been victims of identity theft in the last five years.
- Identity theft losses last year to businesses and financial institutions totaled $47.6 billion and consumer victims reported $5 billion in out-of-pocket expenses.
- 52 percent of all ID theft victims, approximately 5 million people in the last year, discovered that they were victims of identity theft by monitoring their accounts.
- 67 percent of identity theft victims — more than 6.5 million victims in the last year — report that existing credit card accounts were misused.
- 49 percent of victims did not know how their information was obtained.
- About 2.5 million people in the past year said their information was lost or stolen, including lost or stolen credit cards, checkbooks or social security cards.

(This information was released by the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) on Sept. 3 after a survey on identity theft of 4,000 households.)

adults each day, identity thief is on the rise. But there are ways to protect oneself.

Carry with you only essential information, shred documents with important information, cancel any used credit cards, safeguard personal information, review credit reports twice a year, and be cautious with whom you give your information.

The Federal Trade Commission recommends some actions to take if identity theft occurs. Contact the fraud departments of each of the three major credit bureaus, and creditors for any accounts that have been tampered with.

Construction begins on CHI gas lines

Construction began on Taylor Road near the Marine Corps Detachment headquarters yesterday for new underground natural gas lines to most every building on Coasters' Harbor Island.

James Carlson, mechanical engineer at Naval Station Newport Public Works, said pavement is being cut along Taylor Road, east past the tennis courts, and then south on Perry Road past the Newport

Chalet to Luce Avenue.

Traffic will be reduced to one lane, and flaggers will direct commuters around the construction.

"This phase should take two to three weeks, and is the most complex aspect of the project," Carlson said.

Under a NAVSTA basewide energy saving project that began in 1999, New England Gas Co. will install gas lines across the island to convert the heating system from central steam to natural gas fired boilers. Some oil-fired boilers will remain

Carlson said the natural gas distribution system project should take 10 weeks to complete. It is under the Naval Facilities Engineering Command supervision.

The upgrade is expected to save hundreds of thousands of dollars in heating costs over the next 10 to 20 years.

Destroyer readied for commissioning

By DAVID SANDERS
NAVSTA Public Affairs Officer

The Navy's newest Arleigh Burke Class destroyer Chafee (DDG 90) will be commissioned at Naval Station Newport's Pier Two on Saturday, Oct. 18.

The Chafee, constructed at Bath Iron Works, Maine, is the 40th Navy ship of the class. With its complement of approximately 370 crew members, the Chafee's mission is to conduct combat operations at sea as part of an aircraft carrier battle group, an element of a surface action group, or an independent unit.

The ship is 471 feet long and 59 feet wide and can travel at speeds exceeding 30 knots.

Commanded by Cmdr. John

W. Ailes of New London, Conn., the ship is named after late U.S. Sen. John H. Chafee, who was a former Secretary of the Navy and Rhode Island governor.

Following its commissioning, the USS Chafee will be homeported in Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, under the command of Commander, Destroyer Squadron 31.

A commissioning committee comprised of members from the Newport County Navy League is coordinating all aspects of ceremony, including fundraising, social and cultural activities for the crew, invitations, and public relations.

Joseph McEnness and Frank Hanson of Newport are co-chairmen of the committee.

Air Force flyover to mark 56th year

U. S. Air Force students and faculty assigned to the Naval War College on Tuesday, Sept. 16, will celebrate the air service's 56th anniversary and remember the nation's prisoners of war and those missing in action (POWs/MIAs).

The observance will include a flyover by Air Force and Air National Guard aircraft. Birthday celebration activities will begin at noon on Colbert Plaza overlooking Narragansett Bay. Rear Adm. Ronald A. Route, president of the college, is scheduled to speak.

Aircraft participating in the flyover will represent a cross section of the Air Force inventory. Scheduled are F-15 Eagle fighters from Otis Air National Guard Base in Massachusetts, and B-1 Lancer bombers from Ellsworth Air Force Base, South Dakota.

Cake and beverages will be served immediately after the flyover and all Naval War College staff, faculty, and students are invited to attend.

NACC staff enlightened on post traumatic stress

By JOY CHRISTMAS
NAVSTA Public Affairs Staff

It's normal to replay significant events over and over in our minds, but if the event is traumatic it can sometimes impede daily functioning.

Post Traumatic Stress Disorder, or PTSD, can become a daunting challenge not only for those afflicted, but for health care professionals who treat them.

Since Sept. 11, 2001, the number of PTSD cases is increasing. As such, the need for qualified health care professionals cognizant in the area has escalated.

Personnel at the Naval Ambulatory Care Center Newport attended a three-day training session to identify signs and effectively respond to patients living with PTSD. Army Reserve Maj. Peter Bauer, a licensed clinical social worker from the Veterans Health Care System in Kerrville, Texas, facilitated the training.

A joint endeavor between the Army and the Navy, the training ironically was initially scheduled for

Diabetic to recap solo sailboat race

Canadian yachtsman John Dennis, who was diagnosed with Type 2 diabetes but qualified to enter the 2002-3 Around the World Alone Race, will speak Sept. 23 at 10 a.m. at the Naval Ambulatory Care Center command conference room, Building 43.

The presentation is sponsored by the Diabetes Program, Health Promotion Clinic at NACC Newport.

Dennis, who was one of 13 intrepid sailors in the race, will speak on his sailing adventures, and how he thought his childhood dream was crushed when diagnosed with diabetes in 1996.

However, the diagnosis stimulated his desire for challenges, making him more determined than ever to be the first person with diabetes to sail alone around the world, he said.

Dennis is a veteran of 40 long-distance voyages covering more than 90,000 nautical miles, and is also partially

Letter to the Editor

Sailor winning the battle against his own diabetes

To the Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to recognize Gunner's Mate First Class Bobby Ray Johnson (Naval Station Newport) for his perseverance and commitment toward a healthier life.

GM1 Johnson struggled to keep his Type 2 Diabetes under control for the last several years. However, for the past six months, GM1 Johnson has brought his HGBA1C from 13.2 to 6.6 percent. This value is a measurement of compliance and is one of the critical tools we used to monitor diabetes.

An HGBA1C of less than 7 is a difficult task to achieve and maintain for many diabetics.

I commend GM1 Johnson for all of his hard work.

Bravo zulu!

Kids mingle with critters

IN THE SLOW LANES—Mason McGough, 9 months, is not too sure about being on all fours with an African spur thigh tortoise named 'Sherman.'

SNAKE CHARMER — Clayton Cecchetti, 10, keeps an king snake at arm's length at the Armed Services YMCA. The snake and other animals were introduced to children by Animal Experience of East Providence, a traveling zoological education program.

MIDDLETOWN — About 40 preschool children sat anxiously in their chairs at the Armed Services YMCA watching for creatures to start crawling, slithering and scurrying.

It was the annual visit by Animal Experiences of East Providence, a traveling zoological education program that brings snakes, turtles, lizards and other small animals for children to see and touch.

Guest Dave Marchetti displayed and discussed each of his reptiles, amphibians and furry critters.

Ranging from hedgehogs and chinchillas, to blue tongue lizards and alligators, the children enjoyed every moment.

"The lizards are good, but I love the turtles," said Sam Cecchetti, 8.

Cecchetti, who was attending for his third consecutive year, was accompanied by his two siblings, Victoria, 3, and Clayton, 10, and their mother, Judy.

"The children love this," she said. "It's wonderful because it's one of the only times the children get the chance to hold animals."

While Sam made friends with the American alligator,

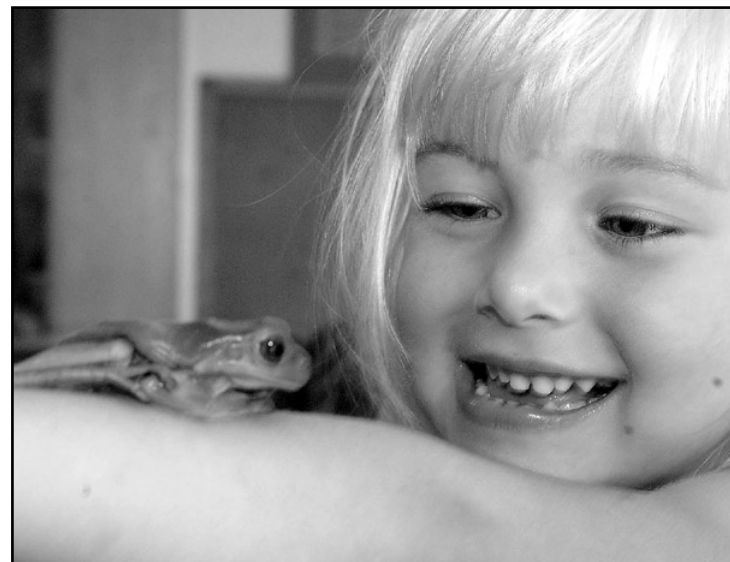

Victoria sat cuddling a green tree frog, and Clayton found comfort wrapped in an albino king snake, mom stood watch.

Peggy Estes regards the "experience" as a long awaited one, "The whole week my daughter has been looking forward to this," said Estes, while handling the animals beside her daughter, Jackie.

"It's such a fun day for her," she said. "I can't show any fear, because Jackie will get scared."

The animals Marchetti brings every year are very docile and used to handling by children, even the alligator.

The chinchillas and hedgehogs are easy to care for and make great pets for kids, he said.

One of the more unusual reptiles that Marchetti brought was the blotched blue-tongue skink, one of the largest species of lizards in Tasmania and also found in Australia. Snakes included the albino king snake and milk snake.

Crawling around the floor was Sherman, an African spur thigh tortoise.

After the event each child received a backpack consisting of school supplies that Citizens Bank and 92 WPRO-FM donated to YMCA's and Boys Clubs and Girls Clubs across Rhode Island.

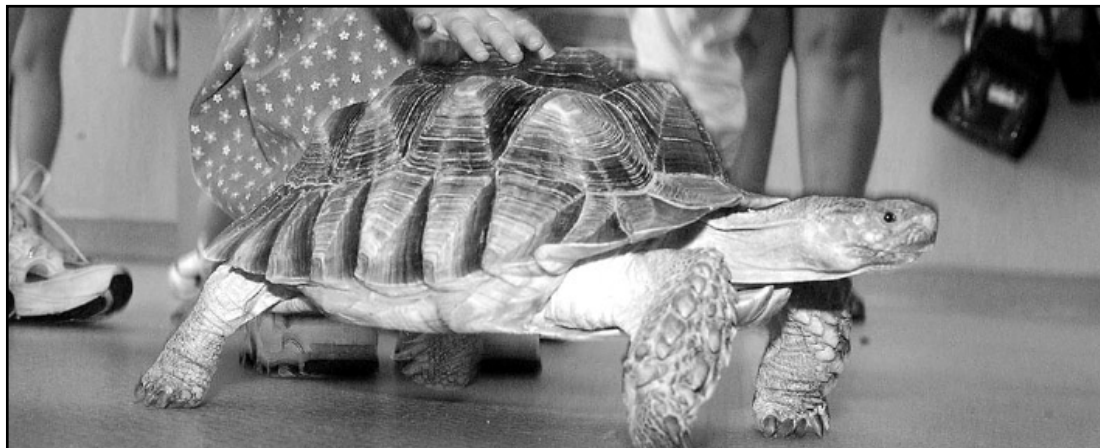

The Tools for Schools gave 75 of the 2,500 backpacks to the YMCAs.

Small life changes lower blood pressure

High blood pressure is a serious condition that affects millions of Americans. Fortunately, high blood pressure can be controlled and prevented.

There are no symptoms for high blood pressure, so you may feel fine and still have this condition. Always have your blood pressure checked when you visit your doctor. High blood pressure readings after two check-ups can be considered a problem.

Prevent high blood pressure by making small lifestyle changes. For instance, exercising each day and maintaining a healthy body weight can greatly reduce blood pressure. Also, eating more fruits, vegetables and whole grains and following a low-salt diet will make you feel better and lower your risk for high blood pressure.

Your doctor may also prescribe medication to help lower your blood pressure.

Take your medicine at the same time each day for optimal results. In addition, tell your doctor about all the medications you take, including over-the-counter drugs, as these may affect your blood pressure.

If you have questions about high blood pressure, call the 24-hour Health Care Information Line for assistance. The line is staffed by Registered Nurses who can help you determine the non-emergency or self-care you need in the proper setting and can provide information on health issues.

Call 1-800-308-3518 any time, day or night to speak to a nurse or to access the Health Information Library (Pin #208).

blind in one eye. But he remains positive.

"Just because you have diabetes doesn't mean your life is over," he said. "You have to control it. I really want diabetics to follow the program. If they look after themselves, they'll have a good healthy life."

The five-leg race, "Around the World Alone" started in Newport on Sept. 12, 2002. It occurs only every four years and takes approximately eight months and covers 28,000 miles.

It is the longest race for any individual in any sport and has been called "the single toughest sporting event." Fewer than 70 people have ever completed the race, and the last Canadian who attempted to sail alone around the world was lost at sea in 1996.

After several unsuccessful efforts to raise the necessary funds (total expenses can reach $4 million to $5 million), Dennis finally gained the sponsorship of Bayer Labs, makers of diabetic supplies and pharmaceuticals.

With only two months before the start of the race, he scrambled to totally refit a 50 foot second hand vessel and named it the "Ascencia" after the name of one of Bayer's glucose monitors.

Not only was Dennis the oldest sailor at 57, he was also sailing the oldest boat and was the last one to start the refitting process.

After completing the prerequisite round-trip transatlantic voyage to the Azores (29 days, 4,000 nautical miles) and sailing half of it alone, Dennis then successfully completed a rollover test. That is when the boat is completely turned upside down and must be righted.

Dennis completed the first two legs of the race and reached Cape Town on Dec. 5. But just a few hundred miles into the third leg a seized engine bearing disabled both the boat's autopilot and ballast pump. He was forced to withdraw from the race.

Those interested in attending should call 841-6778.

Hudson Valley experience, power blunts NAPS, 30-0

By ENSIGN SCOTT MEIS

Navalog contributor

TROY, N.Y. — Relying on a strong running game, the Vikings of Hudson Valley Community College rolled over the the Naval Academy Prep School Rams, 30-0, last Saturday at Veterans Memorial Field.

Hudson Valley's experience and strength proved too much for NAPS to handle in their second game of the season.

Despite maintaining possession of the ball for the first 9 minutes of the game, the Rams were unable to post any points on the scoreboard. What looked to be an early touchdown for NAPS was immediately called back because of an offensive penalty. Nonetheless, the only score during the first half arrived after the Vikings returned a fumbled NAPS pitch for a touchdown.

The Rams held the Vikings to a 10-point lead through most of the third quarter before Hudson Valley scored again, making it 17-0. The lead became insurmountable as the Vikings coasted through the fourth quarter, solidifying their victory.

In the end, the Vikings had forced seven turnovers and held NAPS to only 17 yards total offense in the second half.

In spite of giving up 194 yards on the ground, the Rams had a few bright spots on defense. Linebackers Lasanio Small and Nick Clark each had 11 tackles while cornerback Greg Thrasher added 10 tackles of his own.

Defensive lineman John RAMS, Page 13

Gilley had another standout game with 10 tackles, a sack, recovered fumble, and a blocked field goal.

Andrew Johnson led the offense with two receptions for 22 yards while also carrying the ball six times for 28 yards. Reggie Campbell added 27 of his own yards on the ground.

In addition, Nick Williams and Kyle Kimbro each ran the ball five times for 34 yards apiece.

In his second game as head coach, Clayton Kendrick-Holmes viewed the loss as an eye-opener for his team.

“Our guys really learned how good the competition is at the college level,” he said. “ Hopefully they understand how hard they have to prepare to compete each week.”

An early season loss has provided Kendrick-Holmes with a good idea of the areas in which his team must improve.

“We have to start capitalizing on our opponents’ mistakes and creating opportunities rather than problems on special teams.”

The Rams’ challenging schedule continues tomorrow against Dean College of Franklin, Mass., when they square off for a home battle at noon on Nimitz Field.

Stress

2001 but was cancelled after the terrorist attacks.

Maj. Bauer said the focus is not only how to intervene with people exposed to PTSD in combat or otherwise and how to help them recover, but prevention.

As servicemembers return from Iraq and Afghanistan it is important to have appropriate services in place, he said.

Recognizing the symptoms and knowing what’s appropriate in terms of treatment are the keys to treating PTSD, Bauer said. Treatment of PTSD is a multi-disciplinary effort and that may include psychopharmacology, psychotherapy, social support, family support and spiritual support.”

“We look at the bio-psycho-social sphere of things, history of trauma experienced, as well as other medical problems they may have (cardiac, respiratory, etc.),” he said. “The earlier they receive appropriate intervention, the better.”

Bauer, whose first 16 years of military service was Navy, has extensive experience working with victims of various types of trauma.

“When we speak of working victims of trauma, this can be combat, domestic violence, sexual assault, a fire or accident,” he said.

Bauer said the second anniversary of the Sept. 11 tragedy will no doubt be traumatic for many, as they relive the horror, not only in their minds, but see news tape on television.

Diagnosing PTSD can be complex, even for trained professionals. Indicators can be physical, cognitive/mental, emotional and/or behavioral.

PTSD is not new. It erupted in major proportions 30 years ago with the return of the Vietnam vets. Unlike today, they were ostracized and forced to hide their pain, said Bauer, who treats many of those veterans today.

“The most important element is trust,” he said. “You have to establish a relationship and environment where the victim feels safe.”

Bauer said it is important that history does not repeat itself and that first level responders have the tools to recognize those indicators and secure intervention in a timely and efficient manner.

Bauer said training is being conducted at such places as Fleet and Family Support Centers (FFSC) and worked into curriculums such as Naval Chaplains School in Newport.
